Father Tom's Letter

Dear Friends,

"Mary kept all these things, reflecting on them in her heart."

Reflections from Fr. Jude Siciliano, OP:

"We join Mary as we reflect on what "all these things" can mean for us and our world. We begin by looking for Christ in the least-likely places. He can be found, if our story is any guide, among the outsiders and in the most surprising places. The influential and powerful would consider Bethlehem a no-account village -- to say nothing of what they would have thought about the stable and manger as the birth site for God's Savior!"

"I have been getting Christmas cards from friends and family. Many contain special photos of the children taken just for Christmas. The kids look perfect (I'm sure their parents know otherwise). Those Christmas photos are on my mind as I try to picture today's gospel scene. The birth happened in a stable, or some cave out back of the inn. Wherever it was, it was the most unlikely royal birthing room for a King. As unlikely a scene as the gospel pictures for us, it's nevertheless a picture of a family gathering -- Mary, the peasant girl with a loving husband and those shepherds at the newborn's side. It's just the kind of diverse family Jesus has come to be part of."

"Through our baptism we are members of that family. Lord knows our lives aren't picture-perfect. There are parts, or even a lot of our lives, that we can't spruce up for a holiday picture. In some ways we're like those shepherds, ragged and living on the edge of things, but invited nevertheless....At each Eucharist we come in from the fields and hillsides of life, weary with work, preoccupied with worry for ourselves, our kids and the whole world.... All of us make ourselves at home around the table, with Mary, our model and loving mother. With her we "keep all these things, reflecting on them." The "things" she saw and heard was God's invitation to the least and those in need. That's why we have gathered at Eucharist, we are in need too. When we receive the good things God has for us we will go out and find other shepherds in the fields to share the glad tidings with them."

Many thanks to all who helped make our Christmas celebrations so faith-filled. Those who decorated the church and auditorium, our music ministry, our liturgical ministers and the wonderful crowds of people who gathered at Masses created an atmosphere of joy and welcome for the Word made flesh. May we continue to recognize and respond to the presence of Jesus in all people.

*"The Lord bless you and keep you! The Lord let his face shine upon you and be gracious to you!
The Lord look upon you kindly and give you peace!"*

Blessings are a big part of the Bible. The blessing in the Old Testament is a gift that is given, an act of unmerited favor and unconditional acceptance, not something that is earned. All blessings are considered incomplete unless they are also accompanied by peace.... It is very appropriate that the Church begins the New Year honoring Mary, the Queen of Peace. Each of us was invited at Mass to take a "Vow of Non-Violence" So the next logical question is: What action are you going to do to make the world a more peaceful place in 2017? We are, after all, just one, big rowdy family. How can the Lord bless us if we are not willing to bless each other and follow up with an active commitment to make a difference for some part of the world? May this be a year of active blessing for all of us.

As 2017 begins let's continue to share the light of Christ at home, at work, in school, at the parish, in our community and our world. Small, bite-sized acts of kindness go a long way!

Peace,

Father Tom

Apostles: We Who Are Sent...Hope: God's constant gift of new possibilities

2016 Christmas Poinsettia Memorials Flowers Of The Holy Night

The Poinsettia, a Christmas tradition, reminds us of just how blessed we are to have shared the joy of this most holy season with loved ones...

Their brilliant color reminds us of the power of memory that each of our hearts hold. We celebrate the miracle of Christ's birth and pray that you will find peace in the memory of your soul, and be blessed by the gracious gift of our Lord this Christmas and always...

“Give Peace A Chance” January 1, 2017

*Any who wish to again renew or take the Vow of Non Violence will be invited to do so, on New Year's Day.
To prepare, kindly pray over the vow and discern whether you feel ready to make it for The New Year, 2017.*

“Peace is to be worked at: it is not something that one gains without efforts” Pope Francis

VOW OF NON VIOLENCE

*Recognizing the violence in my own heart,
yet trusting in the goodness and mercy of God,
I vow for one year to practice the nonviolence of Jesus who taught us in the Sermon on the Mount:*

Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called children of God...

You have learned how it was said,

“You must love your neighbor and hate your enemy”.

But I say to you, “Love your enemies, and pray for those who persecute you.”

In this way you will be daughters and sons of your Creator in heaven.

Before God the Creator and the Sanctifying Spirit,

I vow to carry out in my life the love and example of Jesus

- by striving for peace within myself and seeking to be a peacemaker in my daily life;

- by accepting suffering rather than inflicting it;

- by refusing to retaliate in the face of provocation and violence;

- by persevering in nonviolence of tongue and heart;

- by living conscientiously and simply, so that I do not deprive others of the means to live;

- by actively resisting evil and working nonviolently to abolish war and the causes of war from my own heart and from the face of the earth.

God, I trust in your sustaining love, and believe that just as you gave me the grace and desire to offer this vow, so you will also bestow abundant grace to fulfill it

Now that 2017 has arrived:
an invitation to
Meeting Christ in Prayer

about

If growing closer to Jesus is among your desires for 2017, Meeting Christ in Prayer can be a helpful guide. This 8 week process of spiritual renewal is based on Ignatian spirituality and supplements a weekly small group (8-10 people) gathering of 75 minutes with daily guides for individual prayer. Here are the SSPJ details:

- 8 weeks of small group gatherings on Tuesdays beginning January 10th
- 10-11:15am (and 12:15-1:30pm if there are enough for a second group)
- Donation of $10 includes the 8 week Participant Guide
- Facilitator—Kathleen Andersen, D. Min.

Pre-registration is required. Please either complete the form below and return it to the Parish Center OR send the info by email to KathleenSSPJ@optonline.net.

PLEASE REGISTER BY TUESDAY, JANUARY 3rd.

Your registration will be confirmed by email or phone.

This group will only happen if a sufficient number register by January 3rd.

In the new year, explore deepening your relationship with Jesus in new (and old) ways. This experience is geared for all — those “experienced” in prayer and those who want to explore. You’re asked to commit to the weekly meetings and to using the Guide for a daily time of prayer. It’s not teaching people how to laugh, but sharing the experience of laughing. It’s not teaching people how to pray, it’s sharing the experience of praying. It’s not teaching people how to come to know Jesus, but sharing the experience of knowing Jesus.

THE MEN'S FORUM

AT THE CHURCH OF SAINTS PHILIP & JAMES

A brotherhood of men dedicated to growing in their faith & discipleship in the Lord Jesus Christ.

MONDAY, JANUARY 2, 2017 (NEW YEAR!)

Fr. Roy Tvrdik, SMM, Shrine of Our Lady of the Island
"A Man's Spiritual Journey"

Every tribe of every race since the beginning of human history has had an initiation rite into manhood. These rites were strenuous tests to teach boys how to overcome pain and find the ingenuity and inner strength to overcome the challenges every man must face in life. In this perspective Fr. Roy will discuss the Rite of Christian Initiation as providing the resources for a Catholic man to bear life's crosses and carry on in the noble adventure of following Jesus Christ. Please join us—learning from Fr. Roy is a great way to start the new year with a spirit of courage and vitality.

TIME & LOCATION: Main Church: North Country Rd., Saint James, NY

6:30 PM: Adoration - 7:30 PM: Speaker Talk - 8:30 PM: Coffee & Cake

Come for all, or part of our evening's schedule - No membership required. Open to all men!

HELP IS NEEDED FROM ALL SSPJ MINISTRIES

The ministries here at SSPJ provide so much to the parish and we wish to thank you all for being such great Apostles of Hope. The ministries offer many activities to the parishioners but we all must share and maintain the limited spaces available.

As a reminder, any utilization of space anywhere on the campus must be requested and reserved in advance by submitting a calendar request form and a work order when needed. Recently we have had groups utilizing rooms or spaces for which no calendar request or work order had been submitted or approved. This has created a space utilization problem, as well as the ability to maintain our facilities in proper order.

We are all in this together, and are one. We, therefore, request your cooperation in complying with the existing policy. If this is not followed, it may result in ministries being denied use of our facilities for their functions.

Thanks for your cooperation and being Apostles of Hope.

SSPJ School News

The First Graders here at SSPJ worked hard to prepare for their big Christmas Tableau! This play celebrated the birth of Jesus by reenacting the First Christmas! The students dressed as Joseph, Mary, Shepherds, Angels and animals to bring this special moment to life! The students spent many weeks rehearsing and practicing and their hard work definitely showed!

This was truly an amazing performance that encourages people to never forget the true meaning of Christmas! You can see pictures Christmas Tableau on our first grade class webpage.

The First Graders would also like to take this time to wish everyone a very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Healthy New Year!

Reflections on Next Sunday's Scripture Readings

Isaiah 60:1-6      Psalms 72
Ephesians 3:2-3a,5-6      Matthew 2:1-12

Faith is not just God and me. As a believer I belong to a community. The joys and pains of the larger group are mine as well. Faith calls me to reveal the presence of a caring God. The Epiphany of the Lord is about revelation: the manifestation of a God who cares in the person of the Son who became man.

Today's first reading uses the images of darkness and thick clouds to describe the frustration of Judah and Jerusalem after the exile around 500 B.C. Hope is symbolized in the light that will shine upon Jerusalem when the exiles return. This light will be for the good of all, because "nations shall come to your light" as the believers reveal their caring God.

The author of Ephesians unveils God's revelation: the Gentiles are in communion with Israel. Thus the Gentiles are coheirs and partners with Israel in God's promise of salvation. Since the Gentiles have also received the Spirit, the wall of separation between Jew and Gentile has been obliterated. To share the inheritance with Israel is to realize one's dignity.

Matthew writes of the pagan magi following the star. The magi represent all those Gentiles who will enter the Christian Church while the Jews, who possess the Scriptures, reject Jesus. Matthew also sees believers as signs of a caring God. The believer who embraces the lonely and sorrowing reveals a compassionate God.

For reflection...

God sent the Magi a message that caused them to ride camels half way across the known world. What causes you to put this kind of effort into something? What was worth this kind of a search for them? For you?

Bethlehem and Jerusalem. The Magi and Herod. How do these places and people compare or relate? What does this say to you about the places and people God chooses?

The Magi brought gold, frankincense and myrrh as their gifts. What are your gifts? What is the most precious gift you have to give to the Christ Child?

The presence of God shone through the star and invited the Magi to follow. Through whom and through what does the presence of God shine for you? Where are you being invited this year?

Incarnation – God is with Us

For many of us, I suspect, it gets harder each year to capture the mood of Christmas. About the only thing that still warms our hearts are memories, memories of younger, more naïve, days when the lights and carols, Christmas trees and gifts, still excited us. But we're adult now and so too, it seems, is our world. Much of our joy in anticipating Christmas is blunted by many things, not least by the commercialism that today is characterized by excess. By late October we already see Christmas decorations, Santa is around in November, and December greets us with series of Christmas parties which exhaust us long before December 25th. So how can we rally some spirit for Christmas day?

It's not easy, and commercialism and excess are not our only obstacles. More serious are the times. Can we, amid the many cruelties of this year, warm up to a season of tinsel and festivity? Can we continue to romanticize the pilgrimage of one poor couple searching for shelter two thousand years ago amidst the plight of the millions of refugees today who are journeying without even a stable as a refuge? Does it mean anything to speak of peace after various elections this year polarized our nations and left millions unable to speak civilly to their neighbors? Where exactly is the peace and goodwill in our world today?

Closer to home, there are our own personal tragedies: the death of loved ones, lost marriages, lost families, lost health, lost jobs, lost time, tiredness, frustration. How do we celebrate the birth of a redeemer in a world which looks shockingly unredeemed and with hearts that mostly feel heavy and fatigued? The Christmas story is not easily made credible. How do we maintain the belief that God came down from heaven, took on human flesh, conquered all suffering, and altered the course of human history?

This isn't easy to believe amidst all the evidence that seems to contradict it, but its credibility is contingent upon it being properly understood. Christmas is not a magical event, a Cinderella story without midnight. Rather its very centre speaks of humiliation, pain, and forced fleeing which is not unlike that being experienced by millions of refugees and victims of injustice on our planet today. The Christmas story mirrors the struggle that's being experienced within our own world and within our own tired hearts.

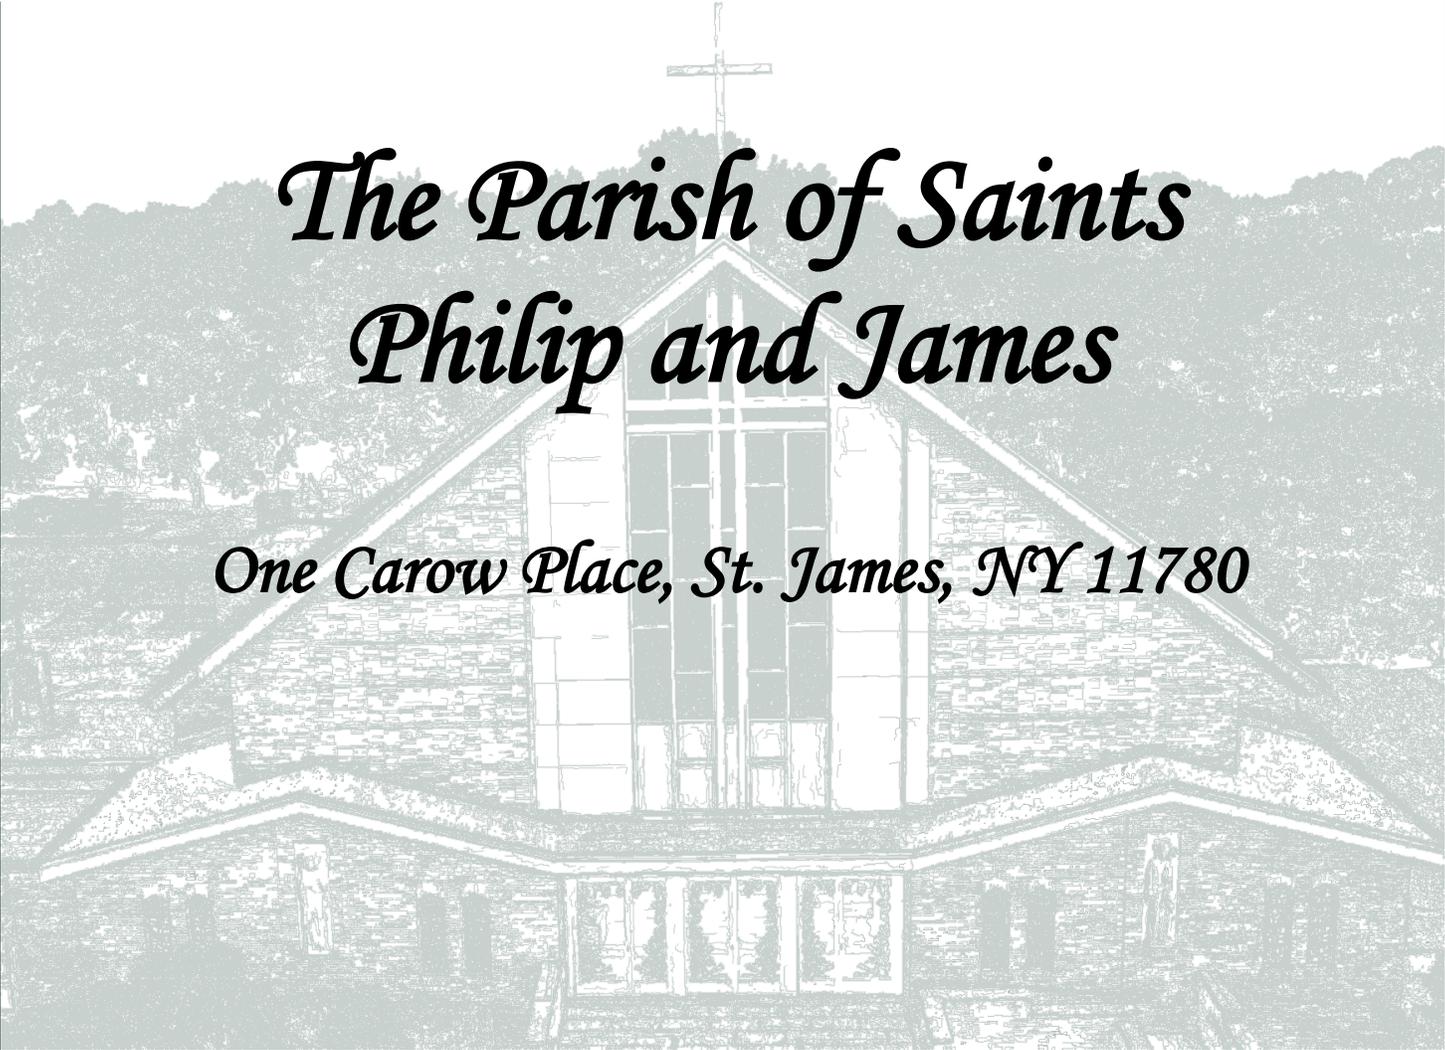

Incarnation is not yet the resurrection. Flesh in Jesus, as in us, is human, vulnerable, weak, incomplete, needy, painfully full of limit, suffering. Christmas celebrates Christ's birth into these things, not his removal of them. Christ redeems limit, evil, sin and pain. But they are not abolished. Given that truth, we can celebrate at Christ's birth without in any way denying or trivializing the real evil in our world and the real pain in our lives. Christmas is a challenge to celebrate while still in pain.

The incarnate God is called Emmanuel, a name which means God-is-with-us. That fact does not mean immediate festive joy. Our world remains wounded, and wars, strikes, selfishness, and bitterness linger. Our hearts too remain wounded. Pain lingers. For a Christian, just as for everyone else, there will be incompleteness, illness, death, senseless hurt, broken dreams, cold, hungry, lonely days of bitterness and a lifetime of inconsummation. Reality can be harsh and Christmas does not ask us to make believe. The incarnation does not promise heaven on earth. It promises heaven in heaven. Here, on earth, it promises us something else – God's presence in our lives. This presence redeems because knowing that God is with us is what ultimately empowers us to give up bitterness, to forgive, and to move beyond cynicism and bitterness. When God is with us then pain and happiness are not mutually exclusive and the agonies and riddles of life do not exclude deep meaning and deep joy.

In the words of Avery Dulles: "The incarnation does not provide us with a ladder by which to escape from the ambiguities of life and scale the heights of heaven. Rather, it enables us to burrow deep into the heart of planet earth and find it shimmering with divinity." George Orwell prophesied that our world would eventually be taken over by tyranny, torture, double-think, and a broken human spirit. To some extent this is true. We're a long ways from being whole and happy, still deeply in exile.

However, we need to celebrate Christmas 2016 heartily. Maybe we won't feel the same excitement we once felt as children when we were excited about tinsel, lights, Christmas carols, and special gifts and special food. Some of that excitement isn't available to us anymore. But something more important is still available, namely, the sense that God is with us in our lives, in our joys as well as in our shortcomings.

The word was made flesh. That's an incredible thing, something that should be celebrated with tinsel, lights, and songs of joy.

Father Tom's Letter

Dear Friends,

Today we celebrate the second Sunday in Ordinary Time. The Christmas season came to an end last Monday on the feast of the Baptism of the Lord. As we move on from celebration, how will we return to our everyday lives? Here are some thoughts from Fr. Jude Siciliano, OP:

Well, we do have to get back to our lives, to the ordinary. We will again be numbering these Sundays "ordinary time" – based on the Latin that means counting. But the English still sounds "ordinary," as in routine, boring and plain. The question is: has the Christmas season reminded us that we have a "Reason for the Season"? Now that Christ has arrived, how do we get him into our daily lives?....

The world around us has, once again, put Christmas aside. But let's not leave the Christmas season too quickly. We pause and play it all back again, noticing how God has been the key player this season, as in all seasons. The real gift comes from God....

Notice, after the manifestation, the Magi must return "by another route." Already the gift of God has begun to change their lives and ours as well. Having experienced the birth of the Savior, nothing can be the same for us, we have to return to our lives "by another route." We have to take what we have experienced back to our families and world, as people who have experienced a life-altering event. A light has shone, "the glory of the Lord shines upon you." We see things in a different way; light shines in our lives and we interpret the events, the difficulties as well as the joys, under the new vision we have from that light.

Thank you for your help in implementing our new Mass schedule. Perhaps we can use the new schedule as an opportunity to raise our voices anew - in song!!! Choosing to sing – we've all heard it before, yet the truth is many churches are filled with former Catholics who didn't find among us life, welcome and praise so often expressed through music. If you always join in the sung responses and hymns, please, keep on singing and encouraging others! If you have refrained in the past, please try "another route" and let your voice join with others in giving praise to our God.

Thank you for responding to our snow removal appeal. The bill for our first "dusting" alone was significant, and last week's storm - well, substantial snow brought substantial cost! As you know, with Christmas and New Year's falling on Sundays, we missed some usual collections. Thank you to all who gave twice! We need to keep up with expenses, so if you are able, even an extra dollar (or more) would be helpful.

Looking ahead, Catholic Schools week arrives at the end of this month. I encourage all with school age children and without to come and rejoice in the treasure we have in SSPJ school. We continue to outscore scholastically ALL area schools, have strong spiritual, academic, social and athletic offerings and enjoy a recognized history of overall excellence in the Diocese of Rockville Centre. Watch the upcoming bulletins for details of the events of that week.

As I leave on vacation I ask you to welcome back not only my friend but yours -- the joy-filled Franciscan friar, Father Kevin Cronin, ofm, who is looking forward to filling in for me. I hope to bring back some warm sunshine!

And...

A woman, pregnant with twins, went into labor while her husband was away on a business trip. Though the twins arrived safely, complications put the mom in a temporary coma. The hospital staff insisted that the next of kin name the twins immediately. The nearest kin was the mom's brother who was kind of a loose cannon. But he named them. When the mom awoke, fearing crazy monikers, she nervously asked what names he had given her babies. "Well, the first was a girl so I named her Denise." The mom breathed a sigh of relief. "The second was a boy so I named him D nephew."

Peace,

Father Tom

Apostles: We Who Are Sent...Hope: God's constant gift of new possibilities

Getting Ready for Next Sunday

January 22nd - Third Sunday in Ordinary Time —Cycle A

Scripture Readings ONLINE

The website of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops provides the text of the Scripture Readings. Go to: www.usccb.org . Click on the date.

Reflections on Next Sunday's Scripture Readings

Isaiah 8:23--9:3

Psalms 27

1 Corinthians 1:10-13,17    Matthew 4:12-23

"It is better to light one little candle than to curse the darkness." Light and darkness symbolize tension in human living: presence and absence, hope and despair, love and hate. Today's readings present the human and divine experience of light and darkness. They reveal a God whose first biblical words are "Let there be light" (Genesis 1:3). They challenge us to be producers of light, not architects of darkness.

Isaiah, in the passage from the Hebrew Scriptures, is preaching between 733 and 725 B.C. The prophet predicts that things will get worse before they get better. But there is also a message of hope: Yahweh will provide an ideal Davidic king. Once again there will be joy. The former captives of the neo-Assyrians who walked in darkness will now witness a great light (Isaiah 9:1). Yahweh dispels darkness and gloom.

Psalms 27 is an individual lament. Enemies are afflicting the psalmist. The author's greatest fear is the absence of God. The image of light suffuses the psalm. Yahweh is the psalmist's light who vanquishes fear. The psalmist longs for Yahweh's house where the author will gaze unimpaired on Yahweh's beauty. The psalmist is also confident about seeing God's goodness in the land of the living.

Matthew uses the text of the first reading for his own theological purposes. For example, in the first reading "sea" refers to the Mediterranean: in Matthew 4:13 it refers to the Sea of Galilee. Matthew also uncovers in today's passage the beginning of Jesus' mission to the Gentiles. This is important for Matthew because his own community is made up of both Jews and Gentiles. Matthew uses a prophetic text in which the pagans overcome darkness by experiencing the light emanating from Jesus' message.

Darkness is a constant companion in our world. The poor, ill, hurting, and depressed lose the capacity to hope for light. Our Christian mission is to echo Genesis, entering this darkness with our personal "Let there be light."

For reflection...

In this gospel story, Jesus is asking people to come along with him. Why were friends important to Jesus? Why is community itself important to Christianity?

How quickly did Peter and Andrew respond to Jesus' invitation? How fast is your response time when you are asked to give money or time to your neighbor in need? What challenges a quick response? What helps you to act?

In his gospel, Matthew quotes Isaiah's passage about this half-Jewish, half-Gentile, obscure, gloomy region of the world. It is common practice for God to use the small or humble to announce the glorious and profound. Can you think of other examples?

It's likely there will always be disagreements. How might we handle them so that good or growth can come out of them?

Orthodoxy, Sin, and Heresy

Recently, while on the road giving a workshop, I took the opportunity to go the Cathedral in that city for a Sunday Eucharist. I was taken aback by the homily. The priest used the Gospel text where Jesus says, I am the vine and you are the branches, to tell the congregation that what Jesus is teaching here is that the Roman Catholic Church constitutes what is referred to as the branches and the way we link to those branches is through the mass and if we miss mass on a Sunday we are committing a mortal sin and should we die in that state we will go to hell.

Then, aware that what he was saying would be unpopular, he protested that the truth is often unpopular, but that what he just said is orthodox Catholic teaching and that anyone denying this is in heresy. It's sad that this kind of thing is still being said in our churches.

Does the Catholic Church really teach that missing mass is a mortal sin and that if you die in that state you will go to hell? No, that's not Catholic orthodoxy, though popular preaching and catechesis often suppose that it is, even as neither accepts the full consequences.

Here's an example: Some years ago, I presided at the funeral of a young man, in his twenties, who had been killed in a car accident. In the months before his death he had for all practical purposes ceased practicing his Catholicism: He had stopped going to church, was living with his girlfriend outside of marriage, and had not been sober when he died. However his family and the congregation who surrounded him at his burial knew him, and they knew that despite his ecclesial and moral carelessness he had a good heart, that he brought sunshine into a room and that was a generous young man.

At the reception after the funeral one of his aunts, who believed that missing mass was a mortal sin that could condemn you to hell, approached me and said: "He had such a great heart and such a wonderful energy; if I were running the gates of heaven, I would let him in." Her comment wonderfully betrayed something deeper inside of her, namely, her belief that a good heart will trump ecclesial rules in terms of who gets to go to heaven and the belief that God has wider criteria for judgment than those formulated in external church rules. She believed that it was a mortal sin to miss mass on Sunday but, for all the right reasons, could not accept the full consequences of that, namely, that her nephew was going to hell. Deep down, she knew that God reads the heart, understands human carelessness, welcomes sinners into his bosom, and does not exclude goodness from heaven.

But that still leaves the question: Is it orthodox Roman Catholic teaching to say that it is a mortal sin to not go to church on a Sunday and that such an ecclesial lapse can send you to hell? No, to teach that categorically would itself be bordering on heresy.

Simply stated, Catholic moral theology has always taught that sin is a subjective thing that can never be read from the outside. We can never look at an action from the outside and say: "That's a sin!" We can look at an action from the outside and say: "That's wrong!" But that's a different judgment. From the outside we can judge an action as objectively wrong, but we can never make the judgment that it's a sin. Moreover this isn't new, liberal teaching, it is already found in our traditional Catechisms. Nobody can look at the action of someone else and say: "That's a sin!" To teach that we can make such a judgment goes against Catholic orthodoxy. We can, and must, affirm that certain things are wrong, objectively wrong, but sin is something else.

Probably the most quoted line from Pope Francis is his famous response to a moral question where he simply responded: "Who am I to judge?" He's in good company. In the Gospel of John, Jesus says: "You judge by appearances; I judge no one." That, of course, does not mean that there isn't any judgment. There is, it's real, and it can condemn someone to hell. But it works this way: God's Love, Life, Truth, and Light come into the world and we judge ourselves apposite them. God condemns no one, but we can condemn ourselves. It is God's Love, Life, Truth, and Light against which we weigh ourselves and these determine who goes where, already here on earth and in eternity.

Catholics for Freedom of Religion

"... proclaim liberty throughout the land"
(Leviticus 25:10) as inscribed on the Liberty Bell

"Religious freedom is not only that of private thought or worship. It is the liberty to live, both privately and publicly, according to the ethical principles resulting from found truth." - June 20, 2014, Pope Francis

Let's celebrate America's First Freedom on Jan. 16th, when the President calls upon Americans to "observe this day through appropriate events and activities in homes, schools and places of worship."

This day is the anniversary of the passage, on Jan. 16, 1786, of the Virginia Statute of Religious Freedom, drafted by Thomas Jefferson and considered one of his greatest achievements. It stopped the practice of taxing people to pay for the support of the local clergy and it protected the civil rights of people to express their religious beliefs without suffering persecution.

A Sampling of the Annual Proclamations by Presidents of the United States:

President Clinton, Jan. 15, 1998: "Among the early settlers who came to our shores, many were seeking escape from religious compulsion and persecution. William Penn, Roger Williams and others strove to make their settlements havens for freedom of conscience, laying the foundation for the great tradition of religious liberty that would ultimately be the First Amendment to the Constitution."

President Bush, Jan. 15, 2003: "Our Founding Fathers recognized that religious freedom is a right we must protect with great vigilance ... and we must be resolved to countering any means that infringe on religious freedom."

President Obama, Jan. 15, 2016: "I call on all Americans to commemorate this day with events and activities that teach us about our Nations liberty, and show us how we can protect it for future generations."

(nationaldaycalendar.com; gtbe.org; presidency.ucsb.edu; religiousfreedomday.com)
"It [religious freedom] is a fundamental right which shapes the way we interact socially and personally with our neighbors whose religious views differ from our own. Pope Francis Sept. 2015

"[May] you defend these rights, especially your religious freedom, for it has been given to you by God himself." Pope Francis; Independence Hall, Philadelphia; September 26, 2015

Getting Ready for Next Sunday

January 29th—4th Sunday in Ordinary Time—Cycle A

Scripture Readings ONLINE

The website of the National Council of Catholic Bishops provides the text of the Scripture Readings. Go to: www.usccb.org, then click on the date.

Reflections on Next Sunday's Scripture Readings

Zephaniah 2:3;3:12-13     Psalms 146
1 Corinthians 1:26-31     Matthew 5:1-12

Will my real values please stand up? The communications barrage we face each day is more than willing to define values. Happiness is in the latest fad, the newest beverage, in looking out for number one. Today's readings present another challenge: Can I run the risk of being different? Look deep within to identify a personal value system.

Zephaniah preached in Jerusalem during the seventh century B.C. He addressed an audience reeling from the effects of paganism. Idolatry was rampant, violence and fraud were commonplace. The prophet believed that Yahweh had to punish Judah so that a purified people would turn again to the Lord.

Zephaniah is able to single out one group whose values have not eroded. The "humble of the land" (Zephaniah 2:3) are those who choose to obey Yahweh and practice justice. They are a remnant of loyal people whom God will spare and even defend.

Paul points out that most of his community cannot boast about their pedigree or prestige. God actually chooses those less wise, less influential, less wellborn -- in this way God confounds the rich and powerful. There is only one genuine value, namely life in Christ Jesus.

In Matthew's account of the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus presents the basic plan of God's kingdom. The qualities that make for happiness in God's reign are identified. Matthew lists nine beatitudes: four stressing a passive attitude (vs. 3-6); four emphasizing an active attitude (vs. 7-10); and a final and longer one focusing on persecution (vs. 11-12).

Zephaniah, Paul, and Jesus call for an abrupt move away from the pursuit of self to concentration on the community. They suggest that we examine our values against the background of ego versus others. This trio presses us to pose an unsettling question: Will my real values please stand up?

For reflection...

In the Beatitudes, do you think Jesus is teaching a lesson or extending an invitation? Explain.

Which of the beatitudes is the hardest for you? Which do you find most appealing?

Through Moses, God gives us the Ten Commandments. Jesus gives us the Beatitudes. How do these sets of guidelines relate to each other? How do you relate to each?

In the first reading, Zephaniah speaks of the "faithful remnant", a group that remains loyal in spite of great difficulties, bad example and poor leadership. How do people remain faithful in the face of such obstacles? What helps you?

How might you explain the concept that the weak, the foolish, and the lowly can confound the strong, the wise and the strong?

Have Confidence In Your Personal Values

Taking our Wounds to the Eucharist

Recently a man came to me, asking for help. He carried some deep wounds, not physical wounds, but emotional wounds to his soul. What surprised me initially was that, while he was deeply wounded, he had not been severely traumatized either in childhood or adulthood. He seemed to have just had to absorb the normal bumps and bruises that everyone has to absorb: some belittling, some bullying, never being the favorite, dissatisfaction with his own body, unfairness within his family and siblings, career frustration, unfairness in his workplace, the sense of being chronically ignored, the sense of never being understood and appreciated, and the self-pity and lack of self-confidence that results from this.

But he was a sensitive man and the combination of all these seemingly little things left him, now in late mid-life, unable to be the gracious, happy Elder he wanted to be. Instead, by his own admission, he was chronically caught-up in a certain wounded self-absorption, namely, in a self-centered anxiety that brought with it the sense that life had not been fair to him. Consequently he was forever somewhat focused on self-protection and was resentful of those who could step forward openly in self-confidence and love. "I hate it," he shared, "when I see persons like Mother Teresa and Pope John Paul speak so with such easy self-confidence about how big their hearts are. I always fill with resentment and think: 'Lucky you!' You haven't had to put up with what I've had to put up with in life!"

This man had been through some professional therapy that had helped bring him to a deeper self-understanding, but still left him paralyzed in terms of moving beyond his wounds. "What can I do with these wounds?" he asked.

My answer to him, as for all of us who are wounded, is: Take those wounds to the Eucharist. Every time you go to a Eucharist, stand by an altar, and receive communion, bring your helplessness and paralysis to God, ask him to touch your body, your heart, your memory, your bitterness, your lack of self-confidence, your self-absorption, your weaknesses, your impotence. Bring your aching body and heart to God. Express your helplessness in simple, humble words: Touch me. Take my wounds. Take my paranoia. Make me whole. Give me forgiveness. Warm my heart. Give me the strength that I cannot give myself.

Pray this prayer, not just when you are receiving communion and being physically touched by the body of Christ, but especially during the Eucharistic prayer because it is there that we are not just being touched and healed by a person, Jesus, but we are also being touched and healed by a sacred event. This is the part of the Eucharist we generally do not understand, but it is the part of the Eucharist that celebrates transformation and healing from wound and sin. In the Eucharist prayer we commemorate the "sacrifice" of Jesus, that is, that event where, as Christian tradition so enigmatically puts it, Jesus was made sin for us. There is a lot in that cryptic phrase. In essence, in his suffering and death, Jesus took on our wounds, our weaknesses, our infidelities, and our sins, died in them, and then through love and trust brought them to wholeness.

Every time we go to Eucharist we are meant to let that transforming event touch us, touch our wounds, our weaknesses, our infidelities, our sin, and our emotional paralysis and bring us to a transformation in wholeness, energy, joy, and love.

The Eucharist is the ultimate healer. There is, I believe, a lot of value in various kinds of physical and emotional therapies, just there is immeasurable value in 12-Step programs and in simply honestly sharing our wounded selves with people we trust. There is too, I believe, value in a certain willful self-effort, in the challenge contained in Jesus' admonition to a paralyzed man: Take up your couch and walk! We should not allow ourselves to be paralyzed by hyper-sensitivity and self-pity. God has given us skin to cover our rawest nerves.

But, with that being admitted, we still cannot heal ourselves. Therapy, self-understanding, loving friends, and disciplined self-effort can take us only so far, and it is not into full healing. Full healing comes from touching and being touched by the sacred. More particularly, as Christians, we believe that this touching involves a touching of the sacred at that place where it has most particularly touched our own wounds, helplessness, weaknesses, and sin, that place, where God "was made sin for us". That place is the event of the death and rising of Jesus and that event is made available to us, to touch and enter into, in the Eucharistic prayer and in receiving the body of Christ in communion.

We need to bring our wounds to the Eucharist because it is there that the sacred love and energy that lie at the ground of all that breathes can cauterize and heal all that is not whole within us.

Dear Sts. Philip & James Parish,

On behalf of the patients, families and the Child Life Department at Stony Brook Children's, we would like to express our deepest thanks for your wonderful donation. The toys and books you donated helped to make illness and hospitalization easier for our patients and their family members, especially during the holiday season. The patients were very happy and excited when they received one of your gifts!

When children are hospitalized they are comforted by special gifts that help them to relax, heal and play. We truly appreciate your thoughtful donation to the Child Life Program at Stony Brook Children's. You should feel great about yourselves and the joy that you helped bring to our patients. We thank you for bringing happiness and smiles to our children through your generosity and kindness!

Reflections on Next Sunday's Scripture Readings

Isaiah 58:7-10

Psalms 112; 1

Corinthians 2:1-5

Matthew 5:13-16

Specially trained individuals are often asked to shed light on areas of confusion and uncertainty. Light eliminates our darkness and eases our tension. The metaphor of light goes all the way back to the first chapter of Genesis when the creation of light means the end of chaos. This same imagery is found in today's Scriptures.

Around 500 B.C. the author of Isaiah 56-66 confronted the post-exilic community in Judah. They complained that their fasting did not have any positive results. In response the prophet points out that a genuine fast means someone has benefited. For example, if bread is shared with the hungry "then your light shall break forth like the dawn" (Isaiah 58:8).

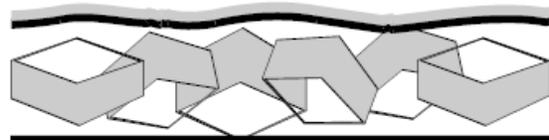

Psalms 112 is constructed around this proverb: The righteousness of the just lasts forever but the desire of the wicked is frustrated. The psalmist sees great blessing for the righteous, "They rise in the darkness as a light for the upright" (Psalm 112:4). The image of light clarifies the thrust of graciousness, mercy, and justice.

Matthew sees the persecuted as the world's benefactors. Harassed Christians are commissioned to enlighten humanity, "You are the light of the world" (Matthew 5:14). Matthew develops this dimension of Christian discipleship by comparing Christ's followers to a city perched on a hill, clear and visible. Disciples shed light on darkness; to renege on this task would be to hide a lamp under a bushel basket.

The narrow constraints of ego often focus the spotlight on one's self. Society encourages this kind of individualism. Light is made into a personal commodity. The sacred writers today urge us to reassess our gifts and talents -- our lights -- as property of the community. Our sisters and brothers are truly human subjects within range of our generosity and compassion. To enlighten the path of these fellow humans is to magnify God's presence. Darkness cedes to light, and chaos gives way to order.

You are the salt of the earth

For reflection...

Today's readings remind us that God uses "ordinary" aspects of life to reveal love, and invites us to do the same. What ordinary "salt" in the form of people or events has helped season your life? How have you seasoned the lives of others?

When have you experienced being the light of the world? Are there "bushel baskets" which keep your light from shining? How might that basket be tended to or removed?

In what ways might we move beyond ourselves to be salt and light to those in need within and beyond our parish?

What does binding the wounds of others have to do with your own wounds? Who benefits when people share their bread or shelter the homeless? Explain.

St. Paul says our faith rests on the power of God. How have you experienced that?

Light...the "end" to chaos

Acedia and Sabbath

Early Christian monks believed in something they called, Acedia. More colloquially, they called it, the Noonday Devil, a name that essentially describes the concept. Acedia, for them, was different from ordinary depression in that it didn't draw you into the dark, chaotic areas of your mind and heart, to have you diseased before your own complex and infinite depth; it was more of a flattening out, a dearth of energy, that put you into a semi-vegetative state that simply deadened all deep feeling and thoughts.

The early church considered it one of the seven capital sins. Later it was renamed as Sloth. There's an abundance of good spiritual literature on the concept of acedia, not least Kathleen Norris' rather definitive work on how acedia was understood by the early church.

But until recently, acedia hadn't been studied in depth as a psychological concept. Happily that's changing, with important implications for spirituality. To offer just one example: I recently attended a lecture on acedia given by a Jungian specialist, Lauren Morgan Wuest. I cannot do justice to her full thesis here, but let me risk an over-simplified synopsis.

Having read the literature of the Desert Fathers and the various commentaries on the idea of acedia, she attempted to interface that spiritual literature with the insights of contemporary psychology, particularly those from the Jungian school of thought. What were her conclusions?

In brief, her view is that acedia is not a clinical diagnosis, meaning that it isn't a pathology requiring treatment, nor is it an ordinary depression. Rather the symptoms of acedia are the result of a healthy instinctual reflex of our bodies and minds which, when they not given something they need, sometimes forcefully shut us down, much like an ordinary depression shuts someone down; except that in the case of acedia, the shutdown of energy is for the purpose of health. Simplistically put, because we won't sit down on our own and give our bodies and minds the rest, nourishment, and space they need, our bodies and minds conspire together to sit us down, forcibly. In essence, that's acedia, and, in essence, it's for our own health.

As a psychologist, she didn't go on to draw out the potential ramifications of this for spirituality, particularly how this might relate to the practice of Sabbath in our lives, but all the implications are there.

When you read the Judeo-Christian scriptures, particularly the early sections in Genesis which chronicle the creation of the world and how God "rested" on the Sabbath, you see that there's a divinely-ordered rhythm to how work and rest are supposed to unfold in our lives. Briefly stated, there's to be pattern, a rhythm, to our lives which works this way: You work for six days, and then have a one day sabbatical; you work for seven years, and then have a one-year sabbatical; you work for seven times seven years, and then have a Jubilee year, a sabbatical for the whole planet; and then you work for a lifetime, and go on an eternity of sabbatical.

In essence, our lives of work, our everyday agenda, and our normal anxieties, are to be regularly punctuated by a time in which we lay down the hammer, lay down our agenda, lay down our work-a-day worries and simply sit, rest, vegetate, enjoy, soak-in, luxuriate, contemplate, pray, and let things take care of themselves for a while. That's the biblical formula for health, spiritual, human, psychic, and bodily. And whenever we don't do this voluntarily, in effect, whenever we neglect to do Sabbath in our lives, our bodies and minds are likely to do it for us by shutting down our energies. Acedia is our friend here: We will do Sabbath, one-way or the other.

It's no secret that today the practice of Sabbath is more and more disappearing within our culture. Indeed, our culture constitutes a virtual conspiracy against the practice of Sabbath. Among the many culprits responsible for this, I highlight our addiction to information technology, our current inability to go for any stretch of time without being connected to others and the world through a phone, a commuter pad, or a computer screen. We are finding ourselves less and less able to step away from all that we are connected to through information technology, and consequently we are finding ourselves less and less able to simply rest, to let go of things, to be in Sabbath-mode. Perhaps the most important ascetical practice for us today would be the practice of Cyber-Sabbaths.

Already seven hundred years ago, the Sufi poet, Rumi, lamented: I have lived too long where I can be reached! That's a cry for Sabbath time that went up long before today's information technology placed us where we can always be reached, and that cry is going up everywhere today as our addiction to information technology increases. One worries that we will not find the asceticism needed to curb our addiction, but then acedia may well do for us what we cannot do for ourselves.
